FOR SALE.

Five hundred acres of LAND, in the County of Alexandria, and five and a half miles from Alexandria and two from Georgetown, one moiety in Wood and part of that heavily timbered. It abounds in excellent water, and hath an extensive view of the neighborhood—from its proximity to the City, Georgetown and Alexandria, with the additional convenience of an abundance of wood, few farms within the District claim a pre-eminence. Upon the First Monday in October, I shall attend on the premises for the purpose of disposing of it, if not sold previous to that time. Should it be more accommodating to those (who wish a country residence during the sickly months,) I will divide it into ten and twenty acre LOTS. Any person wishing to view the Land, by an application to WILLIAM SNELLUM, who lives on it may be gratified.

My remoteness and the frequent depredation on the Wood and Timber, are the principal induc-ments to sell it, not more than one-fifth of the purchase money will be required, and a credit from two to three years will be given for the residue, security by a mortgage, and a forfeiture of the advanced monies, with interest on the sum unpaid, if not punctually and fully discharged.

NEW YORK. September 9.
By the ship Oliver Ellsworth, captain Benet, arrived last evening from Liverpool, we have received London papers to the 23d July inclusive.

The Star of that date announces the arrival of Mr. Munro from Madrid. The news of peace being concluded between this country and Tripoli is confirmed by intelligence received at Paris and London, but the terms of it are still unknown. The French gun-boats and prams have lately been very active, and notwithstanding the vigilance of the British cruisers, several divisions from Dunkirk, &c. have succeeded in getting into Bologne. Admiral Cornwallis, in consequence of the intelligence received by the Curieux, has recalled a squadron sent to strengthen the Ferrol station, and extended his fleet from Ushant to Cape Finisterre, in expectation of intercepting the combined fleets on their return from the West Indies, leaving only a few vessels to watch the motions of the Brest fleet.—New disturbances have broken out in Egypt.

LONDON, July 18.
A king's messenger, with dispatches for General Sir Eyre Coote, K. B., arrived at Cork on Friday last from London. It was expected that the General would immediately embark for Jamaica. Four regiments of infantry, it was understood, would accompany him.

The 89th, 93d, 8th, 83d. The transports at Cove, not employed in this embarkation, were to return to Portsmouth.—The 24th regiment was to disembark, and to do duty at Mindleton.

The American ship Washington from Montevideo to London has been taken and carried into Jersey by the Vulture privateer.

July 22.

The French and Spanish force in the harbor of Ferrol, is now ascertained to amount to thirteen sail of the line, besides frigates.

It was supposed they would put to sea the first opportunity, and run for Corunna Bay, in order to give our squadron, consisting of ten sail of the line, cruising off there, the slip.

July 23.

Hourschid Pacha, Governor of Egypt, has informed the Porte, that the Chief of the Arnauts, Seid Mehmet Ali, has refused obedience to him and to the Porte, on account of the arrears of pay, and has actually headed the troops under his command against that general and the Turks, in consequence of which he, being the weakest, was compelled to seek shelter with his troops in the Castle of Cairo, where he continued when he sent the advice; also, that Elfa Bey had advanced against Alexandria, with a considerable corps assembled at Rosetta with an intention of making himself master of that place; he therefore repeatedly and very urgently prayed for a reinforcement, and reiterated the reasons often alledged, that the greatest detriment and possibly the loss of Egypt might result from it if the Arabs were not soon paid and dismissed.

On receipt of this intelligence, the Grand Seignior immediately summoned a Divan, and the new captain Pacha has received orders to sail for Egypt without delay, with the troops and ships that were then ready, to succor Hourschid Pacha; with the assurance that a more considerable reinforcement would follow.

July 24.

It is reported that the troops which went out with general Craig have been landed at Malta.

General Craig, who is vested with a discretionary command in the Mediterranean, remained behind at Gibraltar, but meant to follow the troops in a few days.

We have received Paris Journals to the 16th and Datch to the 19th inst. inclusive. They announce that admiral De Winter has hoisted his flag on board the Herstelle, in the Texel; that Bonaparte had arrived at Fontainbleau on the 12th; that M. Lucchesini has reached Paris; that M. Hattive has received the reward of all his civic labors in the Moniteur, by being appointed a counsellor of state; and that the Americans have made a convention with the bey of Tripoli.

July 25.

Mr. Munro, the American minister, has arrived at Blake's hotel, Germyn-street, from Madrid.

A vessel arrived yesterday from Malta: soon after it was known a report prevailed in the city, that lord Nelson's fleet had arrived off Cadiz, having missed the combined fleet. This intelligence received little or no credit.

PLYMOUTH, July 21.

Letters received from the Channel fleet, dated the 17th inst. state that they were all well at that date, and that Cornwallis had made, as mentioned in yesterday's paper, a masterly disposition of the fleet. Directly on his receiving an account of the arrival of the Curieux's intelligence this day fortnight at this port, Cornwallis' fleet, leaving a squadron of observation off Brest, was extended from Ushant to Cape Finisterre, and if the enemy's fleet were seen in lat. 47, long. 18, W. as described, great hopes may be entertained of their being caught in a trap.

DOVER, July 22.

It appears that the enemy's flotilla from Boulogne attacked ours, in this last action, contrary to usual practice, on purpose to facilitate the passage of their Dunkirk division; the prams kept up a well directed fire, and are more formidable than we were led to believe; a great deal of the advantage of their force consists, however, in their being able by the length of their guns, to throw shot further than our gun-brigs, and which, owing to the heavy fire of their batteries, ought not by any means to go in close; and this advantage would be in a great measure lost, if they would come out into deep water, when our brigs and sloops of war have only short guns, which, tho' heavy metal, cannot throw shot a long way. The Boulogne flotilla is however by their numbers, and having several of the prams and heavy gun-brigs, very formidable, their metal being of very large calibre being mostly Dutch brass guns, from 18 to 24 and 34 pounders, very long; and when they get close enough, they put three shot in a gun, and exercise their men very frequently in working them, and use every endeavor to prepare them for some grand attack: in the mean time we are not idle, our fortifications at the heights go on, and cannon are mounted, and the troops constantly exercised.

VIENNA, July 3.

All the regiments have received orders to be in readiness to march. The two regiments of Transylvania are already gone, and have carried with them their recruits, whom they had not time to clothe. The artillery, which is at Budweis, is to be conveyed in waggons, to Inner Austria, whether great quantities of ammunition have been sent. Besides the troops in Italy, two large camps will be formed near Pettau in Styria, and near Warradin.

Count Cobenzel is extremely ill. The archduke Rainier has been appointed minister of the interior. It is reported that foreign troops are about to enter the Valais and the Pays de Vaud."

Arrived, ship Catherine, Hillard, in 21 days from Laguira. Left at Laguira, brig Friendship, Herrington, of Salem, to sail next day; Union, Tucker, Portland, for New York in 6 days; Pearce, Bartlett—Newburyport, ten days; Canton, Fowler, New York, uncertain; Molv, Chamberlain, Philadelphia, 15 days; Ann and Mary, Mallory, Baltimore, put in distress; but it was supposed she would be permitted to land: Schrs. Hope, Middleton, Norwich, uncertain; Brothers Return, Scott, Alexandria, uncertain; Eliza Ann, Herbert, and Emily, Stone, both of and for Norfolk, uncertain: Sailed day before ship Stranger, Waterman, of New York for Pirento Cavello; spoke in the offing ship Alert, Lewis, from Boston, who had been lying off and on, fifteen or twenty days, who informed that if he was not admitted to an entry the next day, he should put away for Havana; likewise in the offing, brig Mary, Dorley, Philadelphia; Lat. 32, 30, N. long. 70, 43, W. spoke schooner Virginia, from Norfolk for Antigua, seven days out, was boarded off the Hook by the Cambrian, and dismissed after polite examination. Captain H. saw the ship Eugenia, Mansfield, from Bordeaux, sent of by the Cambrian.

BALTIMORE, September 11.

Arrived, ship Little Mary, Waters, 62 days from Amsterdam. Left there 7th July, ships Baltimore; London Packet; Erin; Atalanta, and schooner Two Sisters all of Baltimore; ship America of do. just arrived; Chesman, Draper; Fanny, and Caledonia, of New York; Union, of Philadelphia, for Batavia, ready to sail; and many others unknown. Off Dunn's cass, spoke a ship from New York, for Amsterdam, supposes her to be the Oneida Chief; long. 30, lat. 38, passed the wreck of a vessel bottom up, supposed she was a brig, apparently a fine vessel; expects the accident to have happened two days before in a gale of wind.

NORFOLK, September 8.

Arrived ship Susan, Loring 51 days from Lisbon.

Schr. Catherine Shepherd, Webb, from Antigua, via. St. Bartholomew, in 20 days.

The ship Emily, Welch, was taken and carried into Antigua the 14th of August, she was from this port, and last from Guadalupe, bound to Antigua.

Left, the schooner Thomas and Henry, captain Newell, from this port, to sail for Monserat, to load for Norfolk in a few days; schr. Rambler, capt. Parrott, from Cherrystone, to sail for Norfolk in a few days.

Fourteenth August, arrived ship —, captain —, last from Guadalupe, sent in for adjudication, James Rody, supercargo—Sailed on the 9th August schooner Lavater, captain Levering of Alexandria, for St. Thomas's, cargo not sold.

August 31, lat. 32, 42, N. long. 61, 30, fell in with the Jamaica fleet bound for England, out five weeks, amounting to seventy sail of merchantmen, under convoy of the Vanguard of seventy four guns, commanded by captain G. Newman; at the same time spoke the brig Rebecca, of Alexandria, capt. —, from Martinique, bound to Baltimore, out 16 days, and kept company with the said brig to the Capes of Virginia.

The supercargo of the ship Serpent, handed captain Webb, the following, with a request to have it published on his arrival at this place.

"That the ship Serpent, capt. Hayes, and the schooner Suarrow, capt. Frost, both from Baltimore, bound to Martinique, and Guadalupe, were captured on the 27th ult. on their way to Guadalupe, by the British sloop of war Hippomene, E. Woollcomb, under the lee of Dominico, and off the town of Roseau, and after putting a prize master and mariners on board, ordered them for St. John's, (Ant.) where they arrived on the 30th ult. Their trial came on the 11th of August, the schooner and cargo were condemned, only Mr. Bacon's part of the ship's cargo was condemned, the remainder, together with the ship was liberated, the plea for condemnation is, that no British subject, although he may have lived 30 years in America, and be entitled to all the privileges of an American citizen, if he be found trading and supplying the enemies of the British crown with provisions &c. his property in that case is a good and lawful prize, for they say that no British born subject is allowed to throw off his allegiance to the crown of G. Britain; and all British subjects, tho' American citizens, that are found trading with the enemies of England, their property will be condemned to all intents and purposes."

Alexandria Daily Advertiser.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 13.

Extract of a letter from Havanna, dated the 23d ult.

"The fear of the British capturing vessels bound from the out ports of this island, has in a great measure subsided, as we have not heard of any lately."

"A large Spanish letter of marque mounting, 18 guns, 12 twelve pounders and six 32 pound carriages, in 55 days from Monte Vied, in S. America, loaded with tallow, junk, beef, candles &c. fell with an English sloop of war, within a few leagues of this port—an engagement took place, and after an hour and a half hard fighting, the Englishman sheered off. This happened in the afternoon of Friday last.

In the course of the night following the sloop of war accompanied by a privateer came up with the ship again: consequently another engagement ensued and after obstinate combat for a considerable time, both the sloop of war and privateer again sheered off.

"This is the Spanish captain's account; and is partly confirmed by the report of the captain of an American vessel, who was so near them as to be obliged to alter his course to get out of reach of the balls. The Spaniards had one hundred men, two of whom were killed and seven wounded."

The following information was received from Captain Gage, of the schooner Sea-Flower, from Havanna, arrived at New-York.

The schooner Caroline, of Charleston, John L. Cranston, master, laden with a cargo of rum from Jamaica, bound to Charleston, the property of Mr. Andrew Kerr, merchant there, was captured off the west end of Cuba the 15th July, by a French Felucca privateer called the Valante, one Paul, commander, who took said vessel into a small bay near Cape Antonio, took the rum out, put it on board of another American vessel (the schooner Mary, of Camden, N. C. which was captured by the felucca, and is made use of by privateersmen as a store ship for their plunder) and they have armed the schooner Caroline, and is now cruising in her against the American commerce, and has actually taken with him the schooner Sea-Flower, of Charleston, S. By a gentleman from Chester county, Pennsylvania, we learn, that on the morn ing of the 28th ult. a tremendous fall of rain took place in the upper end of that and adjacent parts of Lancaster county, such is the oldest inhabitants of the neighbor hood never before experienced. Our in formant states, that for some time it ap peared as though the sluices of the great deep were broken up; that the water de scended in torrents, swelling the rivulets and larger streams to an enormous height, and rolling impetuously down the hills, swept with resistless fury all that opposed its progress in the valleys below, bearing down fences and enclosures, as well as mill-dams of every description, and some buildings; among the latter are mentioned one forge and one coal-house totally wash ed down, another forge nearly washed down, and two more much injured; one saw-mill carried off, and two others mate rially damaged and removed from their foundations; one valuable flour-mill and one nail factory (the former built of stone) completely torn to pieces, and almost en tirely washed away; and three valuable bridges, two of them on stone piers, swept off; together with sixteen valuable mill and and fore dams, entirely levelled to their foundations, all within a distance of about fifteen miles, principally on the Brandy wine, and the smaller streams emptying thereinto. One or two families were ob liged to fly for their lives, leaving their houses and furniture to the mercy of the furious elements; fortunately no lives were lost. The destruction of fences, our in formant adds, is almost inconceivable; the best idea he can furnish on the subject is, that on the meadows of one person nearly thirty thousand rails are deposited.

Considerable damage has also been done on the Octoraro Creek, in Lancaster coun ty, as well as on the streams composing Elk River in Maryland; particulars not as certained.

On the Brandywine, which presented such a scene as the neighboring inhabitants had never before witnessed, the water in less than eight hours rose twenty feet per pendicular.

Several letters have been received in town corroborating the above account, one of which says, that this was absolutely une qualed in the annals of American floods.

POLITICAL ESSAYS

On the essential and distinctive qualities of Democracies and Republics, with refer ence to the Constitution of the United States.

FROM THE BALTIMORE REPUBLICAN, OR ANTI-DEMOCRAT.

ESSAY XII.

The constitution contains the fundamental laws of the state. It is "a pledge and surety, given to all men and to all nations, that these fundamental laws will be reli giously observed. God himself is bound by promises and oaths! and shall not the people be bound by oaths & engagements, into which they have freely and voluntar ily entered? Shall they dare to exercise the reserved sovereign power for purposes o ther than changing, altering, or annulling, their constitutions.

It is declared in this instrument that it belongs only to a certain description of the people,—to elect a definite number of men, of a particular age, as members of the house of representatives of congress: that to the same description of the people it belongs to elect a few persons, who alone may elect the senators of congress: that to the same description of the people or to persons elected by them, it belongs to elect a few men, who shall elect the president: that to the president and senate only, be longs the powers of entering into treaties with foreign nations, of appointing the great officers of state, ministers, generals, and judges: that to congress belongs the power of declaring war, and making peace.

[Charleston Times.]

Havanna, capt. Johnson the British sloop of war the same time spoke brig 25 days from Kingston, ork, in distress, the mate supplied them with one taint of the Tweezer sent rd, and rendered them e making laws, to the president the power of executing them, and to the judiciary the power of expounding them: that before any alteration can be made in the constitution, two thirds of both houses of congress must deem them necessary, and propose them; or two thirds of the legislatures of the several states must apply to congress to call a convention for proposing amend ments; and after amendments are pro posed, and before they can become a part of the constitution, they must be ratified by the legislatures of three fourths of the sev eral states, or by conventions in three fourths thereof, as the one or the other shall be ordered by congress.

In none of these cases can the people act, "in their original sovereign, and un limited capacity." (43) In none of these cases do the people possess the supreme power of the state.

Under what circumstances then may this supreme power, which the people never part with, be called into activity?

When congress shall transgress the bounds assigned to it, by passing acts incompat ible with the constitution, whereby the lib erties and welfare of the community shall be manifestly endangered, and the ends of the government perverted (44); when the judges, these acts being discussed before them, will not venture to withhold from them the sanction of judicial authority; when the pres ident will not dare to refuse, or when he con curs to carry them into effect; when the people by the exercise of their elective rights, cannot displace, every second year in one branch, every sixth year in the other branch of the legislature, and every fourth year in the executive, those who act in consistent with their duty; when all those modes of redress shall have proved ineffect ual, then may the people resort to their "reserved uncontrollable power," for then they stand absolved from their oaths and en gagements; then they may assume into their own hands the alteration of the constitu tion; then "they may revoke the lease, the conditions being broken by the tenant," (45); then, and not before may this mighty power, high above all height, caput inter nubila, be called into action, and perform its revolutionary functions.

Thus we see the supreme power which the people never part with, is a distinct thing from the supreme power of the state.

Locke, from whose political writings some of our most celebrated statesmen have derived their opinions, relative to government, and whose principles of go vernment, in consequence, have entered into several constitutions, makes the same distinction between the supreme power of the state and the supreme power which re sides in the people.

"The legislature (he observes) is the supreme power of the commonwealth, sa cred and unalterable where the community has once placed it; nor can any edict of any body else, in what form soever con ceived, or by what power soever backed, have the force or obligation of law, which has not its sanction from that legislature, which the people has chosen and appointed; for without this the law could not have that which is absolutely necessary to its being a law, the consent of the society, over whom nobody can have power to make laws, but by their own consent, and by au thority deriv'd from them. And therefore all the obedience, which, by the most solemn ties, any one can be obliged to pay, ultimately terminates in this supreme power, and is directed by those laws which it en acts: nor can any oath to any foreign pow er whatsoever, nor any domestic subord inate power, discharge any member of the society from his obedience to the legisla ture, acting pursuant to their trust; nor oblige him to any obedience contrary to the laws so enacted, or further than they do allow; it being ridiculous to imagine any one is tied, ultimately, to obey any power in the society which is not supreme."

Again; "though in a constituted com monwealth, standing upon its own basis, and acting accordingly to its own nature, that is, acting for the preservation of the community, there can be but one supreme power, which is the legislative, to which all the rest are, and must be, subordinate, yet the legislative being only a fiduciary power, to act for certain ends, there remains still in the people a supreme power to remove or alter the legislative, when they find the legislature act contrary to the trust reposed
